

Anthony Nguyen is a member of the Illimited LAB at the University of Washington. He is also currently the Aerodynamics Lead of UW Formula Motorsports and a senior undergraduate in Aeronautical and Astronautical Engineering. His interests lie in fluid dynamics, aerodynamic and mechanical design, and material testing and analysis. His current research focuses on mechanical computation and processing of digital signals and has previously been a part of research on dielectric barrier discharge actuators.